

An Update from the EUSA Conference Program Chairs

We very much look forward to your paper and panel submissions for EUSA's upcoming conference in Miami, FL. So much has happened in and around the EU since we all last assembled, and we are very much looking forward to seeing everyone again, as well as meeting the next generation of EU and European studies scholars. Though the excitement is high, needless to say that we are keeping a watchful eye on national border restrictions, as well as local COVID health conditions. At this time, we are hopeful the conference will proceed in person. So submit your proposals by Oct. 4th and join us in Miami, FL. We hope to reconnect there.
